

Insider Protection

Complete Your Security Plan

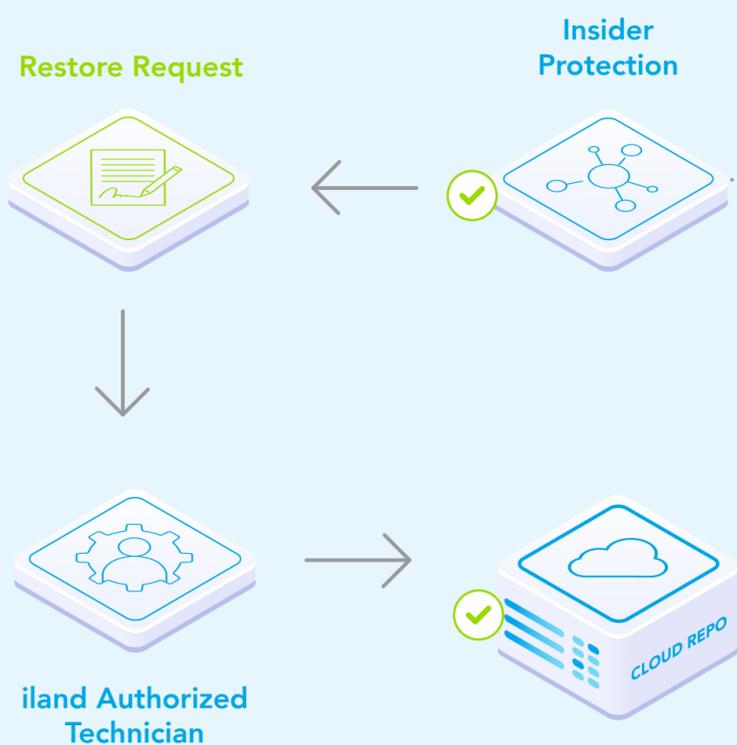

Your data protection strategy already includes backup with iland. That's great—but, threats keep evolving. Learn more about our "Insider Protection" and how it takes your data protection strategy to the next level.

Your organization understands the value of its data and is following the 3-2-1 best practice for data protection to remove single points of failure.

But with data more valuable than ever, threats are evolving and targeting local and cloud backup data in addition to production. As cybercriminals continue to evolve their methods, frequency and sophistication, your backup solution needs to become more resilient for what's next.

To be more resilient against potential attacks, iland has an additional backup security feature: Insider Protection. Deleted cloud-based backup data are moved into an air-gapped repository that is only accessible by iland Technicians who can assist in recovering your data. If you do not have Insider Protection added to your solution, your data may never be recoverable.

"During a recent ransomware attack - the iland team worked directly with us to restore our environment and help us avoid paying a ransom. The experience showed us the value of Insider Protection and our trusted partner iland who went above and beyond."
