Partner with Industry-leading experts to smooth the bumps and handle the curves on your technology journey.

It's no secret that as organizations move through their technology journey there can be a number of different challenges along the way. Often it can be false starts and unexpected stops as new innovations upend the tech landscape. Whether it is moving to the cloud, backing up critical data, or preparing for the worst of bad actors, multiple factors can impact the long -term success of a project. Often these improvements require a financial investment, so maximizing an organization's return may also require a strategic roadmap, system- specific knowledge, or regulatory expertise.

With 11:11 Consulting Services, we rapidly engage with your team to provide the market intelligence and expert insights you need, wherever you are in your journey. Our expert recommendations help you make the strategic cloud, networking, and security decisions required to propel your organization forward.

Assess and Advise

Here are core areas where we can advise you and your team:

Cyber Risk Quantification

Cyber risk quantification measures and expresses cyber risk in financial terms rather than subjective ratings. We use numeric values to evaluate potential dollar losses and the actual probability of security incidents occurring.

Optimization

Modify processes and technologies to improve the efficiency, effectiveness, and performance of IT systems and infrastructure across cloud, network connectivity, and information security.

Transformation

Transform compute, storage, network, and applications to better align to your business goals. This includes physically relocating hardware and applications as needed, or migrating logical applications from on-premises to the cloud.

Professional Services

Install circuits, network, and security devices on premises. Assess your network to recommend improvements for maximizing the performance, efficiency, and reliability of your environment. Provide remote and field support to upgrade your infrastructure, as needed.
